He'd been in Costa Rica about a week, when he and two fellow students traveled to Playa Flamingo resort, a few hours from San Jose. While there, John fell and died. Police and family believed there was no foul play. "We just want to get his body home," said JP's mother. http://articles.mcall.com/2004-07-16/news/3560772_1_costa-rica-anne-krupa-moravian http://www.legacy.com/obituaries/timesleader/obituary.aspx?n=john-krupa&pid=2426078	member of Sigma Phi Epsilon, JP was majoring in criminology, with a minor in Spanish and sociology. JP was also a cancer survivor. He had just finished his sophomore year.
8/14/04	David Sneddon/ (24) Nebraska	Brigham Young University/ Beijing's University of International Relations/ Undergrad, study abroad, post-program travel/ China	Beijing/ Not Available, missing since 2004/ After a term of language study, David went hiking in the Yunnan Province and was never seen again. Although there were no witnesses and no physical evidence, Chinese authorities presumed David had fallen or gotten lost and died. However, because North Korea has a history of kidnapping foreign nationals who are skilled at languages and might be able to language train their personnel, and because David could speak both Mandarin and Korean, David's parents believe he was abducted by the DPRK. The Sneddon's have been building evidence for their claim, including reported David-sightings. China	Family describes David as a skilled backpacker and trekker. He had previously traveled to South Korea on a mission trip, and later for an internship. At the time of David's disappearance, he was an Asian Language major, planning to study law and business administration. Toward that end, he'd been preparing to take the
